Transcriber's Notes

This record was originally published in the Journal of the Legislative Council of New South Wales in 1885. The Votes and Proceedings Legislative Assembly of 1885, after changes to the Robertson Land Act, required Inspectors of Stock and Brands and Police to obtain information on occupiers of land and owners of stock in the 55 police districts of New South Wales.

The information sought and obtained was the name of the land holding, the post town of that holding, the name of the occupier, acreage, number of horses, cattle, sheep and pigs held.

The Port Macquarie district, one of the 55 different districts, covers the coastal area from Port Macquarie to Coffs Harbour. The original report was listed alphabetical in the name of the holding but I have converted this to the alphabetical name of the occupier. All entries for this Port Macquarie district were returned by an Inspector.

The relevant feature of this record is that it is the occupier of the acreage shown, who of course could be the owner working his/her own land, or otherwise, and this is an important issue, giving vital information on the early whereabouts of our pioneers, aspects of their holdings, etc.

While this record will give you some details on your ancestor and their livelihood it may also open up many more hours required for further research especially if they did not actually own land. Were they share farming, leasing, renting etc of land, partaking in parents holdings etc. Back to the Parish Maps. Good luck.

It must also be pointed out that the spelling of holding, post town, and occupiers' name is in some cases incorrect in todays time and has been transcribed as listed. This was written in 1885 and names etc could have been entered phonetically or as known in that time period. A lot of our ancestors were not well educated, there were also many varied accents to contend with.
